

Hey Everybody!

We're a team of four people participating in the first data hackathon in JLM. In order to make our idea come to life, we need many samples in order to model and check our algorithms. This is how you fit into the picture.

You have a choice now – help just a bit, or give us the world.

Helping Just A Bit

You could download a week of your location history by going to

<https://www.google.com/maps/timeline/kml?authuser=0&pb=!1m8!1m3!1i2015!2i11!3i8!2m3!1i2015!2i11!3i14>

This will download the location history between 2015-11-08 and 2015-11-14. After download is done, just send it to one of us.

Thank You!

Giving Us the World

If you want to be more than just a friend, you could export all you location history for us. Following the simple two-click instructions in the next link you'd be downloading all your location history data.

Generating the data takes around 4-5 minutes, after which you can download it and send to us by mail. (The file size would be around several MBs)

Many Thanks!
